SYNOPSIS

Deep in debt to a local thug (Jason Momoa), Miles (Drew Roy) persuades his girlfriend Lauren (Haley Webb) and brother Liam (Shane Coffey) to help fake a disappearance in the Alaskan wilderness. While the town works together to find Miles, the local chief of police (Cary Elwes) begins to suspect foul play. As he closes in on the truth, Liam struggles to conceal the hoax, and in the process exposes a secret that rocks him and Lauren to the core. Now the two are struggling to stay one step ahead of a sadistic thug and the tenacious cops before Miles is gone for good.

Q&A WITH DIRECTOR RICHARD GRAY

Q) How did the script make it to you and what was it about the script that made you want to direct this film?

The writers Abe Pogos and Catherine Hill are actually great friends of my wife's (Michele Gray, producer). Michele had told me about this twisted script, which was actually set in Australia at the time. I read it, I flipped for it, but I'd actually just been up to Alaska for a film festival, and I thought and epic location would really enhance the stakes in the story. Our production company scouted it, fell in love with it, and we set the date!

Q) When reading the script, did you already have any actors or actresses in mind for the lead roles? And if so, did you feel it was important to communicate that to the producers and casting director?

Casting SUGAR MOUNTAIN was really fun. Having Cary Elwes, Jason Momoa and Melora Walters in the supporting lead roles, gave us great freedom with the younger lead roles. Drew Roy and Shane Coffey ('Miles' and 'Liam') just gelled so well as competitive brothers, and Haley Webb ('Lauren') brought this amazing confidence into the room. They worked brilliantly as a trio, incredibly natural and believable.

Q) How long did it take to shoot the film, and what was your favorite location?

We were in Alaska for almost four months. Completely fell in love with the place! We shot the film in 6 weeks, just coming out of winter. Seward, Alaska was the location for 80% of the film and it's now one of my favorite places in the world. Beautiful little town, intense wilderness at your doorstep, a glacier, frozen rivers, amazing mountains, whales and dolphins – GREAT pubs. It really added so much value for us, and the crew had a ball. DP John Garrett did an amazing job of capturing these often very difficult locations and I can't wait for an audience to see the results.

Q) What was the day to day like on set with this cast? Which of your previous sets was it most and least like?

Having been lucky enough to make a few movies now, the camaraderie within our crew is really special. We just feel so lucky to be on set. We're like a traveling circus. All across the US now, we put up the big tent and go on an adventure. The fact that the majority of crew had never been to Alaska before lead to one of the most enjoyable shooting experiences of our lives. It was bucket list stuff.

Q) What type of difficulties did you encounter filming in such a harsh environment?

Alaska in the winter can be hardcore, but we got very lucky. It was around 25 to 40 on most days, but blue skies. When the sun was shining it was really manageable and the pictures just looked amazing. However, when it did rain and sleet, it was close to the hardest shooting days of my life. The scenes down at the boat docks for example, the rain was so thick and hard and coming through sideways and it was freezing, literally freezing and everyone was soaking wet. That was really, really hard – but that said, you can see it in the pictures and it enhanced the story.

Q) What was the biggest lesson you learned directing SUGAR MOUNTAIN that you'll use directing future projects?

Moose can be more frightening than bears. We filmed out at a brilliant Wilderness Refuge ranch. We got to interact with bison, bears, moose – not trained animals, but not fully wild either. Although filming with the bears was super scary, it was actually an encounter with a moose that really spooked us. We learnt pretty quickly we'd need more time with any and anything to do with these beautiful animals.

Q) If you were to ever fake your own disappearance, what would you do differently?

Without giving too much away, if I was to fake my disappearance I probably wouldn't leave my brother behind with my girlfriend whom I know he's in love with! Oh, and I'd pack a larger hip flask.

Q) What do you hope audiences will take away from the film?

I love the twisting story, I really hope the audience can relate to the plight of our characters and emphasize with what they feel they have to do when pushed to the limit. If they come along for the ride, I know they won't regret it.

ABOUT THE FILMMAKERS

RICHARD GRAY (Director / Producer)

A young and prolific filmmaker, Gray was recently attached to direct the remake of cult classic AUDITION, with Mario Kassar (Rambo, T2, BASIC INSTINCT, CHAPLIN) Producing. Gray is also helming thriller ABANDONED starring (and produced by) Star Trek and Snowden actor Zachary Quinto.

Last fall saw the theatrical release of Gray's crime thriller THE LOOKALIKE, starring Justin Long, John Corbett, Gina Gershon, Jerry O'Connell, Gillian Jacobs and Luis Guzmán. Richard's debut feature film SUMMER CODA, a romantic drama, starred Rachael Taylor and two-time Academy Award nominee Jacki Weaver (Animal Kingdom, Silver Lining Playbook).

MICHELE GRAY (Producer)

Michele is a writer and producer from Melbourne, Australia, based in Los Angeles. Some of her work includes THE LOOKALIKE (2014), staring Justin Long, John Corbett, Gillian Jacobs and Luis Guzmán, which she wrote and produced, and SUGAR MOUNTAIN (2016), starring Jason Momoa and Cary Elwes, which she produced. Michele has also worked as a producer, writer, and script editor on Richard Gray's BLINDER (2013), MINE GAMES (2012) and SUMMER CODA (2010). Some of her TV work in Australia includes two feature length documentaries, SEA TO THE SKY GAMES (FOXTEL) and FISH OUT OF WATER (FOX 8), eight episodes of the THE PHONE (FOX 8), and a funded comedy pilot for the Movie Network, SO NOW YOU'RE FAMOUS.

VIRGINIA KAY (Producer)

Virginia Kay is a feature film, documentary, and digital producer based across Melbourne and Los Angeles, and founder and managing director of Melbourne-based female-owned company, PLOT MEDIA, and US-based company, YELLOW BRICK FILMS. Virginia has produced four narrative feature films including SUGAR MOUNTAIN (2016), starring Jason Momoa and Cary Elwes, THE LOOKALIKE (2014), BLINDER (2013) and MINE GAMES (2012). Virginia production managed and line-produced the feature CRAWLSPACE (2012), HAIL (2011) and SUMMER CODA (2010).

Virginia is currently in production on Plot Media multi-platform project, THE WESTBURY FAERY. Awarded funding via the Canada-Australia Interactive Digital Media Incentive – a Screen Australia and Canada Media Fund co-production initiative. The project is further supported by Film Victoria. Nicholas Verso (Boys in the Trees, TIFF 2016, Venice FF 2016) is directing film components.

Virginia is in development on a slate of feature projects, including THE MIGHTY APOLLO, which was awarded Film Victoria and Screen Australia documentary development funding, and State Library of Victoria support via a creative fellowship with director, Nick Barkla. Plot Media are also in development on SWITCHBLADE ELECTRIC (Dir: Jesse O'Brien), which has been accepted into the London PFM 2016.

JAMIE HOUGE (Producer)

Jamie Houge is an international producer with over ten years' experience in producing film, TV and digital. As a dual citizen of the USA and Australia, Jamie splits the majority of her time between producing feature films in the USA with Yellow Brick Films and Australian digital media agency PLOT Media. Drawing from a successful career in digital production, Jamie's passion is the strategizing of projects across multiple screen-based media, including film, web, mobile apps, TV and cinema.

Jamie's feature film work includes: producer on $1.8M feature film shot in rural Alaska, SUGAR MOUNTAIN (2015) starring Jason Momoa, Cary Elwes; producer on the $1.8M New Orleans-based feature THE LOOKALIKE (2014) starring Justin Long, John Corbett, Luis Guzmán; associate producer on $3M Australian feature BLINDER (2013); production coordinator on US feature, MINE GAMES (2012); production manager of Screen Australia funded $120k short film PERCEPTION (2013, Dir. Miranda Nation) winner of Best Short Film at SFF 2013. Producer of short film COLD WAR (2015) starring Robert Patrick filmed in remote Alaska.

Jamie is currently in development on the Australian theatrical documentary, THE MIGHTY APOLLO and in production on Screen Australia, Canadian Media Fund, and Film Victoria supported interactive transmedia project THE WESTBURY FAERY.

ABE POGOS (Writer)

Abe Pogos has been writing scripts for a range of mediums since graduating from the VCA School of Drama in 1984. He has received several fellowships from the Literature Board of the Australia Council and his plays have had professional productions on main stages including The Athenaeum, The Malthouse and The Sydney Opera House. He has had a number of scripts produced by ABC Radio Drama and since the beginning of 2000 he has written scripts for various Australian TV shows including Stingers, Something In The Air, Blue Heelers, Marshall Law, Always Greener, MDA, Headland, Marx and Venus and the hugely successful Packed to the Rafters. He has had two feature films produced including Compo which received an AFI nomination for its screenplay, and Sugar Mountain which was shot in Alaska and is currently awaiting release. His most recent screenplay, Broken Ghost, is in development and his latest music theatre work, Burn For You, is scheduled for its first performances in mid-2016.

JOHN GARRETT (Cinematographer)

Cinematographer John Garrett, grew up in San Francisco and attended film school at UC Santa Barbara. Upon graduation he moved to Los Angeles and worked his way up the ranks of the camera department on such Hollywood blockbusters as Dreamgirls, Transformers, Captain America, Milk and others. John was recently awarded the "2015 Emerging Cinematographer Award" by his peers at the American Society of Cinematographers.

ALIES SLUITER (Composer)

Alies Sluiter's credits are vast and varied including composing, performing and producing for feature films, documentaries, television (CNN, BBC, ABC, SBS and Foxtel), TVC's and music, theatre and dance productions. She is also a multi-instrumentalist who enjoys guest lecturing in Film Scoring and Dramaturgy at Central St. Martins University of the Arts, London, Elder Conservatorium, University of Adelaide and Sydney Film School.

Her music compositions have been performed in over 40 countries at venues such as Champs des Elysees (Paris, France), London Coliseum (London, UK), New York City Centre (New York, U.S.A), Sydney Opera House (Australia), Chekhov Festival (Moscow, Russia), The Esplanade (Singapore) and The National Centre for Performing Arts (Beijing, China) among others.

Alies has been the recipient of many major awards and grants, including the 2016 South Australian Screen Composer Award for her score to the documentary Michelle's Story, the 2015 Dame Joan Sutherland Award and the 2015 Sir John Monash Scholarship, Australia's most prestigious postgraduate award. She was selected for the Berlinale Talent Campus (Berlin, Germany) and awarded Australian Film Commission and Australian Embassy travel grants and in 2013 received a mentorship award from Fuse Presents to attend the SXSW festival in Austin, Texas.

Other career highlights include composing for Sylvie Guillem's final work Life In Progress (2015 world tour), musically directing Netsayi's European and Asian tours (2007-2009), composing and producing the acclaimed Picture Box Orchestra Album (2012), and composer commissions from Restrung Festival (Brisbane Powerhouse), Adelaide Film Festival, Adelaide Festival Centre's InSpace Program, Southbank Centre (UK) and Cloudgate Dance Company (Taiwan).

As a musical director and violinist she has worked with a diverse range of artists including composers Nitin Sawhney and Phillip Sheppard, musicians David Helfgott and Ray Chen, singers Faheem Mazhar, Netsayi Chigwendere, Hugh Jackman and Natalie Imbruglia, choreographers Akram Khan, Lin Hwai-min and Sidi Larbi Cherkaoui, ballerina Sylvie Guillem, sculptor Antony Gormley and The Shaolin Monks of China to name a few. The production Zero Degrees, received the Helpmann Award, 2007 and nominations for the Olivier Award, Critics Circle Award and Time Out Award.

Alies is currently recording her second Picture Box Orchestra album after a sellout tour that included performances at festivals such as WOMADelaide, Bellingen Global Carnival and the Nannup Music Festival.

Alies currently lives in New York.
